The Nannyberry Viburnum is an easy care large shrub that works great as a privacy hedge or as a backdrop for other plants in your yard. The flowers which bloom in late spring are a pretty white. The berries, which start greenish yellow, then red, then blue by fall add year-round interest. The fall color of the leaves is a nice burgundy. It can also be pruned into a small single or multi-stemmed tree, or you can let the suckers grow to create a thick shrub. (Zones 2 - 8)
